Where Does JTF Make an Impact

THREE PROGRAMS TO MAXIMIZE IMPACT

QUALITY OF LIFE GRANTS

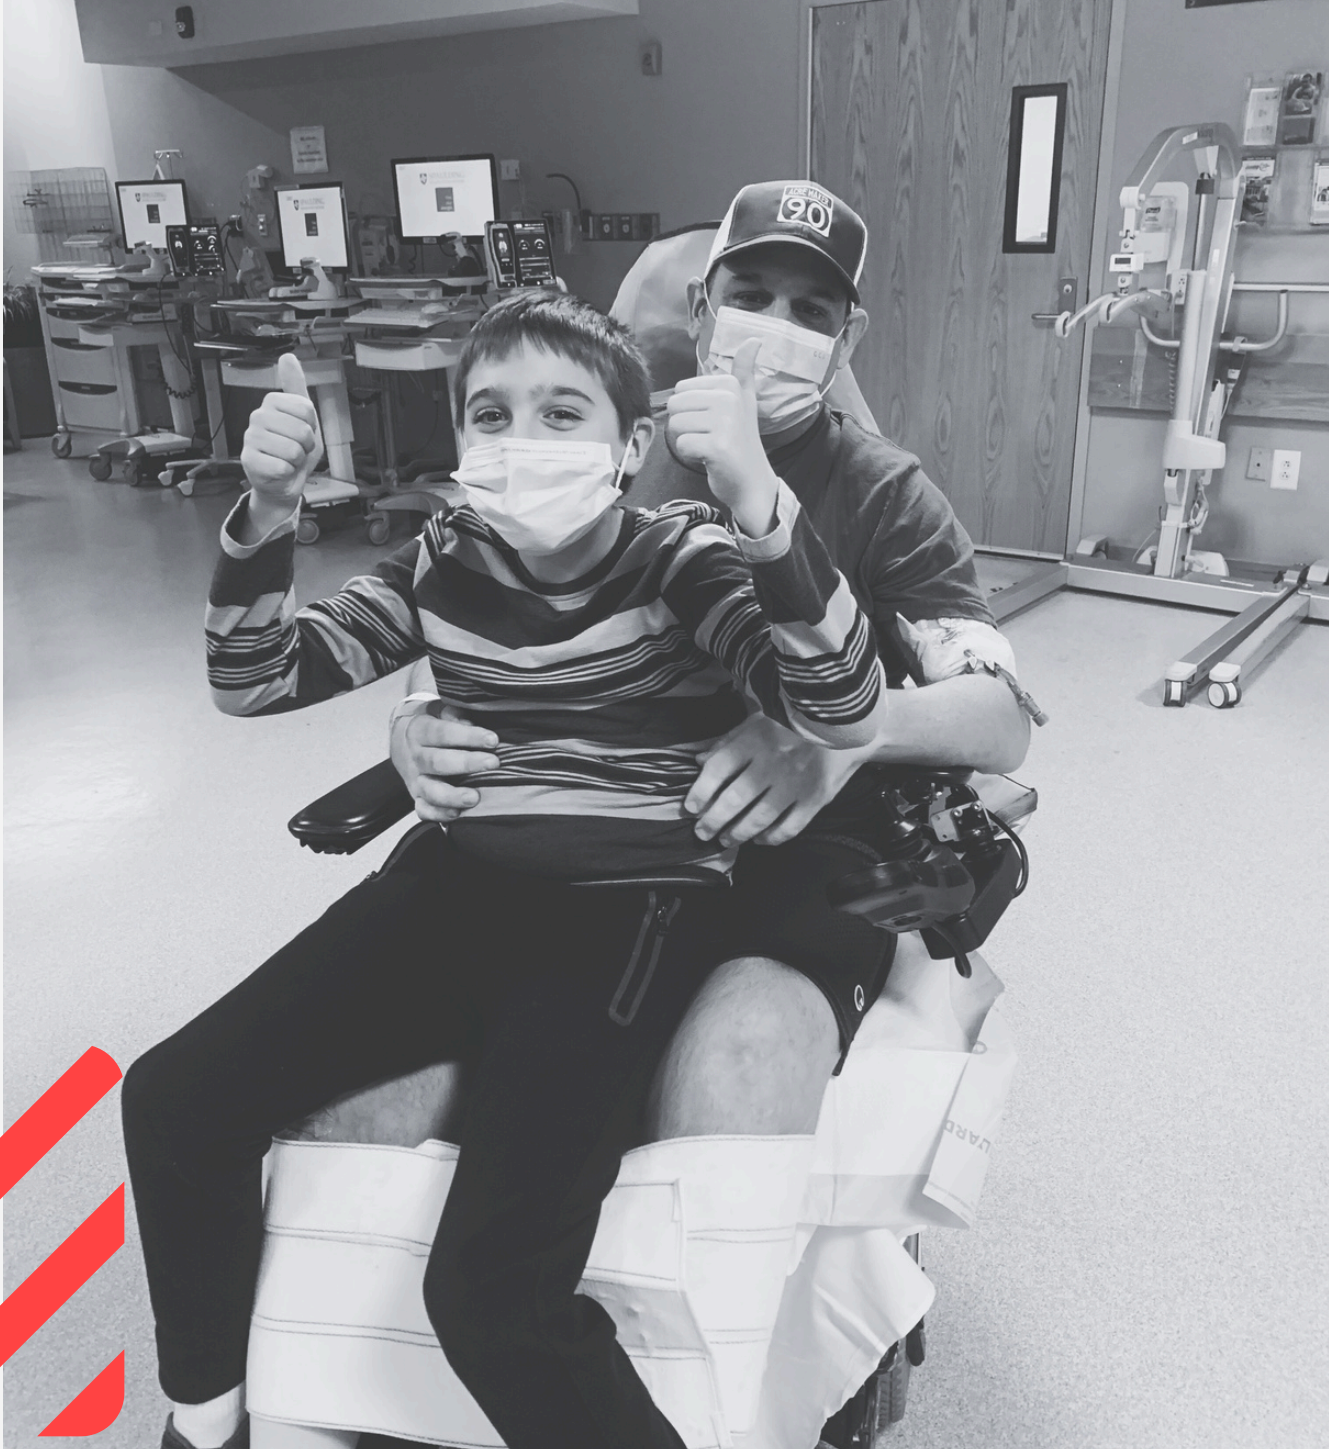

Financial assistance to improve independence through durable medical equipment, home modifications, assistive technology, etc.

ADVANCED RECREATION THERAPY

Access to opportunities that improve physical and mental health, and create lasting memories, friendships, and independence

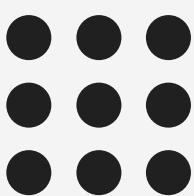

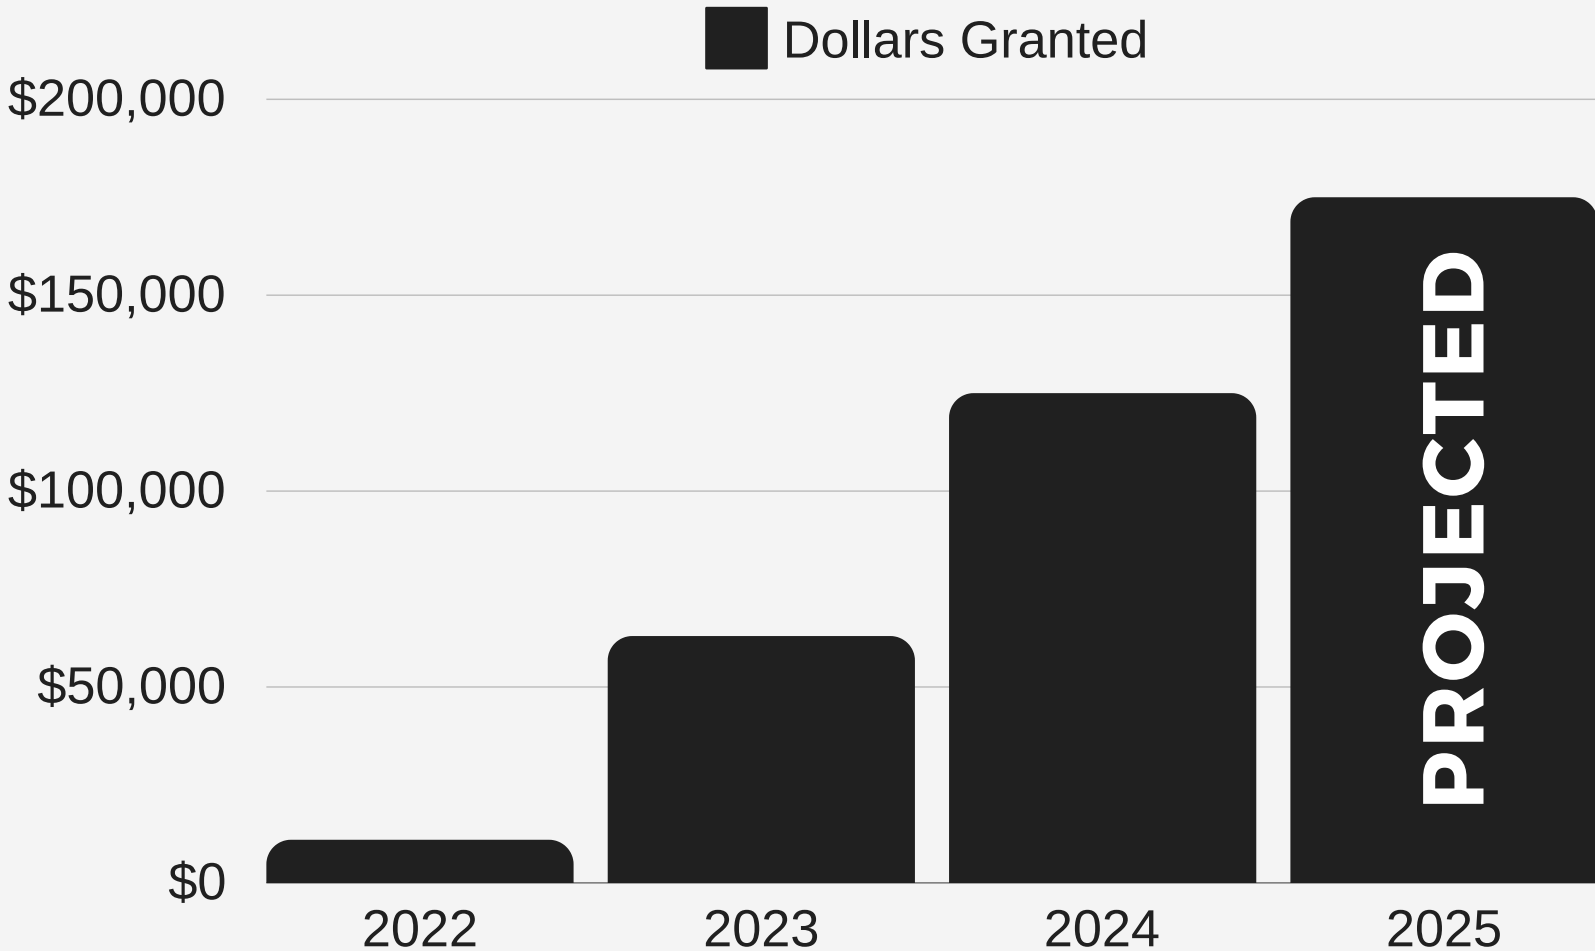

EDUCATION

Discovering quality resources wherever an individual is in their recovery ranging from opportunities outside of JTF to injury prevention

Quality of Life Grants

More than just financial assistance. A QoL grant improves independence, creates peace of mind, and closes the gap between attaining necessary equipment/modifications and the inability to pay for them

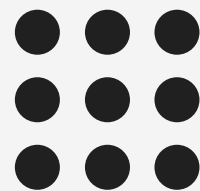

JACQUES MATELLUS

ITEM PROVIDED: WHILL C2 POWER WHEELCHAIR

“I am incredibly grateful to have the WHILL wheelchair. Not only is it incredibly stylish, sleek, and lightweight, but it also disassembles; which gives me the flexibility to make last-minute changes in my plans. As a full-time power chair user, I don’t take that for granted. Another thing I love about this chair is its adjustable height. I’ve been too tall for all of the foldable power chairs that I’ve tried, so it’s nice to be able to adjust this chair to my liking.”

Advanced Recreation Therapy (ART)

Through ART, a disability doesn't prevent an individual from trying new things but rather encourages them to find new ways to be active in society after a traumatic injury. Guided by knowledgeable staff, people can focus on learning new skills to overcome limitations and find independence.

ART GOALS

Through guided experiences, recreation aims to:

- Improve physical & mental health
- Develop passion for activity
- Create meaningful relationships
- Grow optimism for the future
- Learn how to be active outside of JTF
- Turn "I cant" into "I can"

PARIS CARTER

“This life-changing experience has changed my perspective on my injury as a whole. Being surrounded by so much joy and such a diverse set of people has taught me so much about how I can pivot and live a long life as a person with a spinal cord injury. I had never been skiing even before my injury and being able to try this as open my eyes to an entire new sport.”
